SMOOT "MOUTH" RESOLUTION

At One Time It Seemed That the Belligerents Would Resort

There was almost a riot at the meet ng of the Young Men's Republican lub at their headquarters in the Atlas block Thursday night, and for a while it looked as if a free for all would be indulged in. The alleged insurgents tion of the party had esptured the or ganization, hence a merry time had been predicted, and the prediction proved true. There was a merry time and when time was called after the final round the same fighting spirit was manifest as there was when the opening round was fought.

When the meeting convened there was an unusual turnout answered to the infinence which it would and should exert during the coming campaign.

He was followed by D. O. Rideout, one of the so-called insurgents, who had been read out of the Church Republican party. Mr. Rideout's address was in defense of the principles of Republication and all the things.

'I do not believe the Utah National was robbed, unless to misappropriate the funds of that institution to supthe funds of that institution to sup-port another is robbery, and if the grand jury is proceeding along other lines I believe it is following a blind trail. It is my judgment that the gold and currency which made up the sum of the alleged robbery was used for precisely the same purpose as the $200,000 transaction which President McCornick assumed to explain before I left Salt Lake, and that the robbery story was born of mecessity. I so stated to the comptroller of the currency, and this fact, I take it, is a
